

The desire to sail tallships brought me to Enkhuizen. At the wonderful school at Enkhuizen I discovered a world of knowledge. Not just sailing ships, but Dutch marine history, and Dutch history in general. I am learning Dutch now, and noticed that many nautical terms are almost the same in Duits. The school radiates the international spirit of the tallship community. The teachers are very knowledgeable, but explain the subjects in a manner that works for sailors. Nothing beats Marijke explaining trim with the ruler balancing on her head. Enkhuizen feels like family. Hartelijk bedankt!
